THE St. Francis Herald is the latest newspaper venture in Farmington. It is a Democratic sheet edited by J. J. and S. H. Lewis.

"A cheap coat makes a cheap man," does it, Benjamin? This knocks out the old injunction, "Judge not a man by the clothes he wears."

This is going to be a Democratic year all along the line, and don't you forget it. We are going to sweep the country; the right promises to be triumphant by a decidedly large majority.

C. W. HARDIN, of Jefferson county, has been nominated by the Prohibitionists as their candidate for Congressman of this district. The convention was held at De Soto on Monday, 19th.

HON. BEN. T. WALKER, of Stoddard county, has been nominated as the Democratic candidate for senator in the 23d district. Mr. Walker is a brother of the late congressman, J. P. Walker.

At a late city election, where party lines were closely drawn, Poplar bluff went overwhelmingly Democratic. Poplar bluff, it will be remembered, is one of towns our Republican friends have been claiming of late.

ILLINOIS is certain to elect a Democratic governor this year and the possibilities are that state will give Cleveland her electoral vote. This is perfectly proper; the interests of Illinois and Missouri are almost identical; long ago should our sister state have joined in the fight against the protected corporations and favored classes.

We are credibly informed that a certain individual from Washington County lately paid a visit to the headquarters of the Democratic State Central Committee in St. Louis, and stated that it would be well for the campaign managers to look after Iron County, that the Democrats down here were in revolt, and there was no telling what the result would be in November. Where this Washington County statesman got his ideas we are at a total loss to understand, for there is no foundation for them. Anyway, isn't it just the least bit cheeky for Washington County to question the Democracy of Iron. Look at the statistics and compare the records of the two for the past ten or fifteen years.

Just now, according to the Republican papers and orators, the Force Bill is the most innocuous piece of innocent enactment that was ever attempted to be put upon the statute-book. Yet about a year ago, Senator Teller, a good Republican, said it was "the most damnable piece of legislation that ever crossed the threshold of the Senate."

The following ticket was nominated by the Democrats of Washington county at a primary election held September 17th: representative, J. L. Eaton; collector, L. W. Garrett; sheriff, S. P. Johnson; prosecuting attorney, E. T. Eversole; judge—1st district, J. T. Boyer; treasurer, M. A. Casey; assessor, J. B. Boyer; surveyor, T. H. Holman; public administrator, D. N. Sparrs; coroner, J. B. Bell.

EVERY pearl button used in Missouri has three cents of McKinley tax on it for every cent of actual cost. And in face of this we have the following: CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—Ignatz Zeisler, secretary of the Chicago Pearl Button Factory, filed a bill in the Superior Court to-day asking a receiver for the corporation, which was organized last March, with a capital of $10,000 fully paid up. Zeisler represents that the manufacturing of pearl buttons is an industry practically impossible in this country. It was difficult to obtain hands for the work required in the business and strong competition had to be met. The company owes $5,500, while it has stock on hand and machinery worth $10,000. Creditors are pressing their claims, and to save the business the only remedy is a receiver.

This comes just nine days after the letter of acceptance in which Harrison wrote: "Another industry that has been practically created by the McKinley bill is the making of pearl buttons. Few articles coming from abroad were so distinctly the product of starvation wages." We believe that the convicts at Joliet engaged in making McKinley pearl buttons are reasonably well fed. This being the case, why does this McKinley "industry" go into the hands of a receiver?—Republic.

BELOW is a clipping from the Globe-Democrat of Sunday, September 25th, it being the closing paragraph of an article headed "Chinese Groceries." After describing an invoice received by Sun Yeh Sue & Co., and giving the great prices asked for commodities brought from the Celestial Empire, it closes with the following:

"The goods came to San Francisco and then to St. Louis. They pass through the Custom House, where they are examined and scheduled and the duties affixed, and finally get into the hands of the owner, who rolls his eyes in horror when he thinks of the enormous freights and destructive duties he has to pay. It is an exemplification of the same old proverb in political economy, however—the consumer is the one who pays for it all. While Jee Hon Yee gets his pay from the laundries and joints, they in turn reimburse themselves from the public, whose members patronize them, and in this way our West End families are paying for birds' nests and other oriental dainties."

"And yet 'the tariff is not a tax upon the consumer;' and yet Governor McKinley yawns that our tariff makes the foreign producer support our government. But truth will sometimes inadvertently creep out. In this connection we are reminded that Dr. Reid, in his 'Inquiry into the Human Understanding,' says: 'Though one, through a depraved mind, endeavors to always utter falsehood, truth is so natural that the most mendacious sometimes speak it.'"

Public Speaking.

The following are the appointments of Judge R. W. Fyan, Democratic candidate for Congress from the 13th Congressional District of Missouri, and Hon. Lee Woodside, Democratic candidate for Elector for same District, at which times and places they will address the people on the issues of the day:

British Tin-Plate.

Avowedly one of the chief objects of the McKinley tariff was to encourage the tin-plate industries in the United States. So far the American-made tin-plate is a remarkably rare article, and the fears entertained for the South Wales tin-plate manufacture have proved quite groundless. The statistics of exports to the United States during the last seven months appear to show that, notwithstanding the great increase of import duties since June of last year, and the enormous demands for tin-plates in anticipation of a rise just before that date, shipments are now going on at almost the old rates. The figures for the first seven months of the five years from 1888 to date are instructive. They show the exports of tin-plates to the United States for 1888 were 167,882 tons, value $2,412,062; 1889, 203,219 tons, value $2,788,294; 1890, 176,038 tons, value $2,622,823; 1891, 267,548 tons, value $4,432,790; 1892, 167,771 tons, value $2,355,194.

It is pointed out in a trade organ that the total exports of tin-plates, last year were in excess of the current requirements. These figures, however, show that since January 1 last the shipments reached very nearly the figure they did in 1888. The foreign demand for British tin-plates is also growing steadily in other directions.

TEXT BOOKS.

The Exchange Contract Extended.

Sheldon & Co. and E. H. Butler & Co. have failed to keep all dealers supplied with their books. However, these houses assure me by telegram that they are making extraordinary exertion to supply the enormous demands made upon them. As previously stated time and again from this department, books should be promptly exchanged either through local or direct through the publishers. Sheldon & Co., New York (assignees of Taintor & Brothers), the publishers of the Franklin Readers, exchange books until Sept. 22, 1892. D. C. Heath & Co., Chicago, the publishers of Hyde's Grammars, and Leach, Shevell, and Sanborn, Boston, the publishers of Brand's Physiologies, have extended the time for exchange to Oct. 1, 1892. E. H. Butler & Co., Philadelphia, the publishers of Butler's Geographies, telegraph me that they will exchange (through their Philadelphia house only) for all books tendered local dealers by patron or pupils prior to Sept. 1, 1892. The American Book Company, Chicago, the publishers of Ray's Arithmetics, McGuffey's Revised Speller, Barnes' History, Townsend's Civil Government and Steel's Hygienic Physiology, decline to extend the time for exchange beyond Sept. 1, 1892.

All old text-books in use should be promptly tendered local dealers that exchange prices may be obtained. I think I can safely say that no person will be denied the privilege of exchange prices where the failure to exchange before the expiration of time for exchange is caused by the publisher's not supplying local dealers. The necessity of exchanging books promptly has been pressed from time to time in 80,000 circulars sent out to county commissioners for distribution to teachers and school officers, in the press of the State, and in county institutes attended by 12,000 teachers. To exchange the books of 700,000 pupils is a herculean undertaking. Some patience must be exercised by all concerned. Very respectfully,
L. E. WOLFE,
Pres't. School-Book Commission.
Jefferson City, Sept. 14, 1892.

NOTE—Telegram just received from Sheldon & Co., extending the time for exchange to Oct. 1, 1892. This is very important as the readers constitute half the books used by pupils.
